

DISCLAIMER

It has come to the attention of British Columbia's bowling community and here at Poco Bowl, that (John Cassidy a ten year Poco coach) and who has been a member of B.C.'s Bowling fraternity for 35 years, is suffering from cancer. Johns has received calls and has talked to numerous parents and fellow bowlers about this and finds it very confusing and disheartening. This rumor is not true and we would like to say on John's behalf he is healthy and well.

Although john has not been doing his regular coaching duties Saturday's and Monday's here at Poco he is actively coaching our senior boy's team and helping the Poco staff in preparing this team for the Four Steps Tournament and another birth at the National Championships for the sixth time in nine years.

If anyone knows of the person or persons who has started this rumor please inform them, this illness is not true and I'm doing fine.

Yours truly John Cassidy.
